ECIJA has announced the opening of the International Tax practice, led by José Enrique García-Romeu, in the Central American region, where they have offices in Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Panama and the Dominican Republic.

The practice arose due to the increased demand for international operations, as Mauricio París, managing partner of ECIJA Central America indicated: "we see it appropriate to complement our local tax services with a highly sophisticated international component, in line with the industries and sectors in which we provide advice".

With more than 25 years of experience, José Enrique García-Romeu (pictured) is a lawyer specialising in Tax Law. He has worked with the world's largest multinationals, leading numerous important international tax planning, transfer pricing and real estate investment projects.
