Haynes and Boone advised Chevron in opening its first branded service station in Mexico.

Chevron is a US-based energy multinational, headquartered in California, and with presence in more than 180 countries.

The first Chevron-branded station is located in Hermosillo, Sonora and will offer gasoline with the company's proprietary additive Techron®. Chevron recently announced that it expects to open subsequent service stations in the states of Sinaloa and Baja California.

Partner Nicolás Borda in Mexico City led the Haynes and Boone team advising Chevron on contractual and regulatory matters in connection with this transaction.
