Luzone Legal has expanded its presence to the British Virgin Islands and now has a representative in the Island of Tortola, one of the largest British Overseas Territory.

According to the director of Luzone Legal, the lawyer and businessman Leandro Luzone (pictured center with part of the team), the presence of the firm in the British Virgin Islands seeks to serve global clients seeking diversification and protection of international assets.

Luzone Legal's client service will be led by senior attorney Mark Dubois, who resides in Tortola and has decades of experience in advising on offshore company structuring and operations.

Along with the British Virgin Islands, Luzone Legal is now present in seven countries around the world with its own offices in Brazil and Portugal, and five other international offices in Romania, India, Bolivia, Nigeria, and British Virgin Islands respectively.
