Peruvian law firm Rebaza Alcázar & De Las Casas has locally counselled Glisco Partners, as lead investor, in Muncher's Series B round, which raised a total of US $27 million.

Muncher will use the funds to consolidate its presence in Latin America, in particular Mexico and Brazil, where it is already active, as well as to enter new countries.

Creel García-Cuéllar Aiza y Enriquez also acted as advisor in the transaction.

Muncher, founded in Colombia in 2019, is one of the leading FoodTech companies in LatAm. It helps restaurants and food brands become profitable, drive sales and expand their businesses by providing Dark Kitchen technology and infrastructure.

Glisco, based in Mexico, is a growth investment fund with investments. Formerly part of Evercore Partners, in 2016 it spun off to become an independent firm. Its four existing funds have raised and invested more than $500m.
